In 1946, George Nelson evolved his modular “Storagewall” concept into a standardized system of casegoods that can combine and adapt to a range of uses and environments. As part of this series, this cabinet offers two veneers, three drawers, and options for legs that help build a customized storage and display configuration.